Four Foundations Recovery Network Facilities Named to Newsweek's 2024 Annual Ranking of Best Addiction Treatment Centers

Brentwood, TN – September 10, 2024 – Foundations Recovery Network, a leading provider of integrated treatment for co-occurring addiction and mental health disorders, is proud to announce that four of its premier treatment facilities—Pride Institute, Skywood Recovery, Talbott Recovery and Black Bear Lodge—have been recognized in Newsweek's 2024 list of Best Addiction Treatment Centers. This prestigious recognition reflects the unwavering commitment of these facilities to delivering exceptional, evidence-based care to individuals seeking recovery from substance use and mental health disorders.

- Black Bear Lodge, located in northern Georgia amid the beauty of serene forest foothills, aims to equip individuals with the tools they need to build their own lives in recovery. They meet people where they are, developing comprehensive, individualized plans and allowing patients to create and achieve their personal recovery goals. They were named to Newsweek's list for the second consecutive year.
- Pride Institute in Eden Prairie, Minnesota, is a nationally recognized leader in providing LGBTQ+ affirmative treatment. Known for its inclusive, specialized care, Pride has consistently been at the forefront of addressing the unique needs of the LGBTQ+ community in recovery. They were named to Newsweek's list for the third consecutive year.
- Skywood Recovery in Augusta, Michigan, is located on 300 acres of woodland, fields, and ponds. Using an integrated, whole-person approach, Skywood Recovery provides individualized treatment for each patient based on their unique needs. Their goal is to help each person build a foundation for sustainable, long-term recovery. This year marks Skywood's first appearance in Newsweek's list.
- Talbott Recovery in Atlanta, Georgia, has been dedicated to compassionately providing comprehensive substance use disorder and behavioral health services to patients, families and communities since 1989. Their goal is to help people find healing and develop the tools needed to maintain long-term recovery. They are known for their esteemed professionals program that treats pilots, physicians, healthcare professionals, judges, lawyers and executives. Talbott was named to Newsweek's list for the second consecutive year.

“We are incredibly honored to have four of our facilities named among the best in the nation by Newsweek,” said Chad Koller, Vice President of Substance Use Disorders at Foundations Recovery Network. “This recognition is a testament to the hard work and dedication of our staff, who are committed to providing the highest quality of care to those we serve. It also reinforces our mission to empower individuals to find their unique path to recovery and achieve lasting stability and connection.”

Foundations Recovery Network continues to set the standard for integrated treatment of substance use and mental health disorders, with a focus on individualized care, clinical excellence, and community support. The inclusion of these four facilities in Newsweek’s 2024 Best Addiction Treatment Centers list highlights the organization’s ongoing commitment to excellence in behavioral health care. Newsweek Methodology

The 5th edition of the America’s Best Addiction Treatment Centers ranking awards the leading 400 addiction treatment centers in the United States. Facilities in the 25 states with the highest number of addiction treatment centers, according to the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), were included in the survey. The remaining states were grouped into four regions. Addiction treatment centers from these states were considered accordingly. The states are Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Washington.

The scope of facilities and states included in the survey is:

Inpatient/residential and long-term addiction treatment centers were included in the ranking. Long-term programs required a minimum residency of 30 days. In a few selected cases, long-term was defined as a minimum residency of 28 days. Facilities that only offer outpatient or short-term addiction treatment services were excluded.

The top 11-17% facilities per state and top 4-5% per region were awarded. This amount is based on the number of facilities within the specific state or region that meet the above-mentioned scope of requirements, and therefore varies in the individual states and regions.

The list is based on three data sources:

- National Online Survey – Reputation Score: composed of a recommendation score and a quality score which account for 65 percent of the total score.
- Accreditation Score: accounts for 30 percent of the total score.
- Google Reviews: accounts for 5 percent of the total score.
